CANADIAN ART EDITORIAL LINE-UP

WINTER 2017

Focus on “The Future,” opening up discussions on topics as timely and diverse as climate change, privacy and surveillance, virtual reality, gender fluidity and race and ethnicity and their impact on 21st century art practices and thinking.

SPRING 2017

We examine the current state of architectural, institutional, material and immaterial “Structures,” including a planned special artist project by Vancouver artist Geoffrey Farmer to coincide with his work at the Canada Pavilion of the Venice Biennale, opening in May 2017.

SUMMER 2017

Working closely with our Indigenous editor-at-large, we will focus on the varied ideas and legacies of “Indigeneity,” a topic that is crucial to understanding the unresolved frictions that in many ways define contemporary art and culture in Canada. A special feature planned for this issue will be coverage by Indigenous curator Candice Hopkins on her work as a curatorial advisor for this year’s Documenta 14 exhibition, one of the world’s most prestigious art events held every five years in Kassel, Germany.

FALL 2017

We will take a sustained, critical look at “The Idea of History,” offering fresh contemporary perspectives on the hidden histories, untold stories and missing links in Canadian art’s historical canon. It’s an issue that will present a new narrative for contemporary Canadian art, one that moves a rich history into the present, and the future.

PROOF: Clients concerned about colour reproduction can submit an accurate hard-copy colour proof with their ad. To facilitate accurate reproduction of a colour ad, a FUJI or picto proof, matching SWOP standards must be supplied to us.

FILE TRANSFER: Ad files can be transferred to Canadian Art via email, Dropbox, WeTransfer or FTP. The method of transfer depends on the size of the file. Many email servers refuse to accept email attachments over 10MB in size. If you require assistance uploading large files contact our Print Production Manager, Dale Barrett at dbarrett@canadianart.ca.

If you upload files via FTP, Dropbox or WeTransfer you MUST email dbarrett@canadianart.ca to let us know your file has been uploaded.

POLICIES & TERMS

Acceptance of any advertisement in Canadian Art is at the sole discretion of the publisher. All copy and graphics are subject to the publisher's approval.

CONTRACTS: The publisher is not bound by any conditions, printed or otherwise, on contract or copy instructions when such conditions conflict with the rate card or the publisher's policies. Contracts must be completed within one year (four issues). In the case of a lawsuit by any party against or enjoining Canadian Art, relating to a given advertisement (including, but not limited to, libel, copyright infringement, defamation of character or plagiarism), the given advertiser and/or its advertising agency shall fully indemnify and save harmless Canadian Art and the Canadian Art Foundation from all costs, damages and demands.

TERMS: Advertisers and their agencies have dual liability to the publisher in the event of non-payment for advertising. The agency is responsible for the client, and vice versa, notwithstanding any statements to the contrary on agency or advertiser insertion orders or contracts.

CANCELLATION: Cancellations must be received by Canadian Art in writing. An advertiser must cancel the contract in writing 14 days prior to the next issue's closing date. Canadian Art reserves the right to issue an invoice for advertising space if cancellation is made after the required date. Rates that are based on a frequency schedule are subject to short rates if the full schedule is not complete.

CONFIDENTIALITY: Canadian Art shall ensure that any confidential material which is obtained during the scope of this advertising agreement or in negotiation thereof is kept confidential.

ACCOUNT PAYMENT: Depending on credit terms extended, Canadian Art's invoices are payable within 30 days from the date of the invoice. Overdue accounts will be subject to a service charge of 2% per month commencing 30 days from the date of the invoice until paid. When a cheque or a pre-authorized debit is returned unpaid due to non-sufficient funds (NSF), an NSF fee of $45 is charged.

CREDIT: A contract will not be considered valid until a client's credit is approved and the contract is signed by an authorized Canadian Art representative.

ERRORS: In the event of a material error in the advertisement that is the fault of Canadian Art, the maximum liability of the magazine is limited to the space charge for that issue. In this event, the contract will be extended for one issue and the total contract price will remain the same.

NOTE: It is against the policy of Canadian Art to permit the purchase of advertising to have any effect on editorial content. Sales representatives have no authority to make any representations about editorial content.

SPOTLIGHT

GENEROUSLY SUPPORTED BY THE RBC EMERGING ARTISTS PROJECT

A Canadian living and working abroad is fairly unremarkable. Canadians tend to carry their national identities quietly, often nonchalantly—and sometimes reservedly. And in a contemporary art world in which travel and itinerancy have become commonplace, Canadians who move across borders are not unique. In this series of 12 profiles, beginning with a mood-setting interview between artist Ryan Foerster and critic Bob Nickas about living in New York, we meditate on practices that go in and out of the country, and whose Canadianness can seem inconsequential. Yet it is this cohort of artists, filmmakers, illustrators and fashion designers who are at the forefront of international culture making. Interiority, reflexivity, craft, sincerity: whatever makes Canadian art what it is, it is active, visible and everywhere.

RYAN FOERSTER

in conversation with Bob Nickas

Bob Nickas: In the mid-'80s I was aware of two Canadian artists in New York—Vikky Alexander, originally from Ottawa, and Alan Belcher, from Toronto. They were friendly and smart, each working with photography that wasn't necessarily camera-based, with photo-murals and photo-objects. It never occurred to me to ask why they came to New York. That's what younger artists did back then, and still do. Many of the artists here are from somewhere else. The way that Vikky and Alan looked at pictures—as representations, as constructions—fit in with and helped define that moment. They were thought of as New York artists. They were part of the scene. Alan had co-founded Nature Morte, which was one of the best galleries in the East Village. There were other Canadians, photo-based artists in particular, who only came to New York for shows. The first time I saw works by Rodney Graham, Ken Lum, Jeff Wall and Ian Wallace was in 1985 at 49th Parallel, which was the Centre for Contemporary Canadian Art in New York. So they were definitely "imports."

CANADIAN ART GALA

PRESENTING SPONSOR

The Canadian Art Foundation's largest annual fundraiser is the Canadian Art Gala, held annually in September. More than 350 influential art, cultural, philanthropic and business leaders gather for this highly anticipated event. The Canadian Art Gala guests include some of Canada's most important art collectors and enthusiasts.

The Gala offers one of the largest live and silent auctions of contemporary art in Canada and is the essential source of funding for the Canadian Art Foundation.

CANADIAN ART ENCOUNTERS: INTERNATIONAL ARTISTS SERIES

This speaker series brings visionary and influential artists, curators, researchers and thinkers from around the world to audiences across Canada. These speakers are some of the most accomplished professionals in their fields. They inform and inspire audiences about how art and culture shape and define contemporary society.

Past speakers include Germano Celant, Sarah Thornton, Simon Denny, Thomas Hirschhorn, Shirin Neshat, Yael Bartana, El Anatsui, Jean De Loisy and Michael Fried, Marina Abramovic, Hito Steyerl, Janice Kerbel, Taryn Simon, Julian Barnes and Wolfgang Tillmans.

PRESENTING SPONSOR

CANADIAN ART: SCHOOL HOP

The Canadian Art School Hop is an important youth initiative aimed at providing education and outreach to secondary-school students. In the face of reduced funding for extracurricular activities and diminished focus on art education in public schools, this free half-day program offers a unique opportunity for a younger generation to participate in the visual arts cultural landscape.

SUPPORTING SPONSOR

WRITING PRIZE

The Canadian Art Writing Prize is designed to encourage new writers on contemporary art. The winner of this national competition is commissioned to write a feature story for Canadian Art and receives a $3,000 award, while two runners-up each receive recognition in the magazine and a $1,000 award.

SUMMER EDITORIAL RESIDENCY

The Canadian Art Editorial Residency is a national prize awarded to a current undergraduate, graduate or other post-secondary student with an interest in developing expertise in the realm of professional art-magazine publishing. The award involves an 11-week summer residency with a $7,000 honorarium. This introduction to art-magazine publishing and writing is intended to foster new editorial and critical talent.

INTERNSHIPS

The Canadian Art Foundation mentorship program includes three paid internship opportunities to upper-level undergraduate and graduate students and beginning professionals who wish to pursue a career in publishing. Working closely with our editorial and programming departments, our interns receive valuable experience in writing about art, magazine publishing, art criticism, website editing, video production and social-media marketing. Editorial internships for print, web and video run eight months from October to May.

INTERNSHIP TESTIMONIALS

“I think that the Canadian Art Foundation Writing Prize and similar initiatives have a vital role in fostering new voices. To reward and support young writers is to give much needed acknowledgement to the value of thoughtful discourse within the arts. I’m thrilled to have the opportunity to write for Canadian Art, and I hope this opens avenues for working with other arts and culture publications.”

— AMY LUO, CANADIAN ART FOUNDATION WRITING PRIZE WINNER, 2014

“Acting as editorial intern at Canadian Art and contributing to the collaborative efforts involved in the production of a national art magazine was incredibly beneficial for the development of my writing practice and in building a comprehensive understanding of the contemporary Canadian art scene. The critical feedback I received for my written work was detailed, considered and clever, which I couldn’t have appreciated more. It gave me indispensable knowledge and experience that has had a lasting impact on my thinking as I continue to write, edit and work collaboratively on various projects. I am extremely grateful for it.”

— KARINA IRVINE, EDITORIAL INTERN, PRINT, 2015

“The experience of working with the editors at Canadian Art was totally invaluable. It was an apt demonstration in the value of the in-person discussion of ideas and instant feedback: interpersonal dialogue holds the potential for tailored direction that is reactive and receptive. The process of discussing my work at all stages—from brainstorming ideas and sources to getting consistent structural and conceptual feedback—with the editors was a crucial sounding board that made me a considerably more confident writer.”

— MERRAY GERGES, EDITORIAL RESIDENT, PRINT AND ONLINE, 2016

“The online editorial internship at Canadian Art helped me to greatly improve my writing skills, gain confidence in my critical abilities and learn about the editorial process of a national art publication. I gained new insights on contemporary art that hugely complimented my concurrent studies at OCAD. I learned to not shy away from being opinionated and that my greatest asset as a writer was my own unique perspective. Before my internship at Canadian Art I hadn’t seriously considered writing professionally but from the experience I’ve continued to apply myself and have my writing published online and in print—most recently with The Huffington Post. The experience of interning with Canadian Art provided me with new skills and opportunities that I would have otherwise not had. I cannot recommend this opportunity more.”

— BENJAMIN HUNTER, EDITORIAL INTERN, ONLINE, 2015
